

UNIVERSITY DISTINGUISHED TEACHING AWARD (formerly AMOCO GOOD TEACHING AWARD)
The University of Oklahoma Health Sciences Center

The University Distinguished Teaching Award, formerly the Good Teaching Awards Program, was introduced by the Standard Oil (Indiana) Foundation in 1966. The purpose of the program is to recognize excellence in teaching performance at the undergraduate level and to provide an incentive to achieve that goal. The University of Oklahoma has participated in the program since 1968. In 1973, the name of the foundation was changed to the AMOCO Foundation, Inc and was changed to BP Amoco in the late 1990s. In 2003, the award was changed to the Good Teaching Award. In 2019, the award was renamed at the University Distinguished Teaching Award.
